VICTORIA FOUNDATION

CONNECTING PEOPLE WHO CARE WITH CAUSES THAT MATTER®

In May, 2011, Governor General David Johnston called on the Community Foundations of Canada to join him in bringing to life a vision for a smarter and more caring nation.

Community foundations rose to the call, including the Victoria Foundation, which, in March 2012, introduced a Smart and Caring Community Fund. The fund designates up to $100,000 to match contributions that will support a physical literacy program.

“Join me in imagining our country as it could be – a smart and caring nation, where all Canadians can succeed, contribute and develop their talents to their fullest potential.”

Governor General David Johnston

This new Smart and Caring program is called The ABCs of Physical Literacy. It will teach fundamental physical skills – like throwing, jumping, running, catching, and kicking – to children aged 3 - 10. These skills will help children build confidence in their physical abilities, allowing them to be successful in a variety of healthy activities as they develop. It's a program that's proactive, measurable, and responsive to findings from our local and national Vital Signs® reports that indicate Canada's children are less active and at greater risk from childhood obesity than ever before. In short, it's a program that's smart – and caring.

At the Victoria Foundation, “smart and caring” is a concept we’ve been honing since we were founded in 1936. To describe the phrase in terms of a community foundation, you could say “caring” describes what we do, while “smart” describes how we do it.

We approach philanthropy strategically. Working closely with many charitable organizations, we have our finger on the pulse of the most current needs, opportunities and aspirations of our community. For example, our annual Vital Signs® report helps the entire community understand how the region is doing in terms of quality of life, social issues and environmental concerns. Using this information, we set granting priorities and even reach out with proactive granting.

We’re proactive beyond granting, too. Our Vital Youth program provides students at seven high schools in Greater Victoria with hands-on experience in philanthropy and community development. It’s an experience we hope will inspire them to practice philanthropy throughout their lives. In 2011, we piloted a Vital Kids program – a series of presentations to introduce middle school students to community issues and the concept of philanthropy.

“Smart and caring” also applies to our vision of community leadership. We realize that investments in people, ideas and activities can – and sometimes must – involve more than money. That’s why we’ve created a pool of community advisors – smart and caring professionals who provide pro bono consulting expertise that help charities operate more efficiently and successfully. That’s also why we host workshops for our charitable partners, sponsor philanthropic awards to recognize their contributions, and celebrate their successes through platforms such as the new Vital People TV feature we sponsor each Sunday on CHEK News @ 5.

The first economic activity study on arts and culture in Greater Victoria was released in September, 2011. Funded in part by the foundation, the study showed the sector generated total economic activity of $170 million in 2010. By sharing information, expertise and initiative, we are a community catalyst, a philanthropic educator, and a convener. By offering a range of funds that are professionally and prudently managed, we respect the wishes of donors, protect their legacies, and remain responsive to the evolving needs and opportunities in our community.

That’s smart – and caring. That is our legacy to our community.

Elizabeth Summers, Board President, Volunteer Victoria accepted the Victoria Foundation Community Leadership Award presented to Volunteer Victoria. The award recognizes charitable organizations that are building community capacity and achieving positive change.

The foundation granted $75,000 for four projects to protect and support Chinese history, culture and seniors' care and another $26,000 to preserve the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association's historical documents collection.

The Victoria Foundation's three 2011 partners in 1% for the Planet donated $30,000 to eight environmental organizations. 1% for the Planet is an international alliance of businesses that donate at least 1% of their annual revenues to environmental organizations or projects. The foundation promotes the program on Vancouver Island and manages donations for partners The Good Planet Company (pictured above); Hemp and Company; and Horne Couparr Barristers and Solicitors.

The Victoria Youth Vital Signs report was launched at the TEDx Victoria event. It was the first time it was released as a stand-alone report.

The Victoria Foundation helps meet the needs of people and communities throughout B.C. by hosting and administering four provincial funds. In 2011, more than $3 million was disbursed from the following funds:

- » $1.26 million in Youth Education Assistance grants to 232 post-secondary students who were formerly in the government care.
- » $1.0 million for 433 student scholarships and awards from the Irving K. Barber BC Scholarship Society, working in partnership with the Victoria Foundation.
- » $698,389 granted from the Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD) Action Fund to organizations working to improve the lives of people living with FASD and to promote prevention and education about FASD.
- » $67,000 from the Lex Reynolds Adoption and Permanency Trust Fund to support 19 projects that help children and youth find and maintain lifelong connections through adoption or other permanent avenues.

Fifteen charitable organizations with endowment funds managed by the foundation raised more than $140,000 in 75 hours during the 75-Hour Challenge. The foundation contributed another $75,000 in matching funds.

The Victoria Film Festival honored the foundation's 75th with a series called Contemplating Victoria that featured 10 films from the archives that reflect life in Victoria. The Festival also holds an endowment fund with the foundation and received a grant of $20,000 to produce a short film series that will depict the impact of film and video production on local culture and business.

Foundation donors supported the composition of the World War I-based opera Mary's Wedding for Pacific Opera Victoria.

A 75-member foundation team entered the Times Colonist's 10K road race. Members included participants and volunteers from one of the foundation's proactive grant programs, Every Step Counts, a therapeutic walking and running program for people experiencing health and social challenges.

Kids Care Canada Society received $14,800 to produce a DVD on post-partum depression for free distribution to new parents and the agencies that serve them.

The Victoria Symphony premiered High Tower, by Victoria-based composer Anthony Genge. The work was commissioned by an Honorary Governor of the foundation, the late Jane Rogers, in honor of the community contributions of the Victoria Foundation and those of her late husband, former Lieutenant Governor Bob Rogers.

A few of the Victoria Foundation's highlights from 2011.

The foundation issued its sixth annual Victoria's Vital Signs® report showing that Victoria residents are concerned about the cost of living but love the natural amenities of their community.

The first organization to receive a grant from the Victoria Foundation became the most recent one to create an endowment to be managed by the foundation when the Boys and Girls Club of Greater Victoria Foundation – originally the Victoria Boys' Club – established a $100,000 fund in December.

A 75th anniversary celebration featured Canadian comedian Rick Mercer and keynote speaker Tim Brodhead, CEO of the J.W. McConnell Family Foundation.

To celebrate National Volunteer Week in April, the foundation provided a $15,000 grant to support Story Theatre's production of Stepping Up, a play for young people about the benefits of volunteerism.

The Prostate Centre received $27,000 to research the effectiveness of a community-based support model that provides patients with access to their health information and the necessary tools to manage their disease.

MESSAGE FROM THE BOARD CHAIR
AND CEO

The year 2011 marked the 75th anniversary of our community foundation. It was a year of celebration and activity and also a time for reflection. We undertook a careful and comprehensive strategic planning exercise to set a course for the next three years. The process of reviewing our mission, values and operational activities reaffirmed for us the ongoing relevance and importance of the concept of long-term philanthropy.

Deirdre Roberts

Deirdre Roberts,
Chair, Board of Directors

M. Richardson

Sandra Richardson,
Chief Executive Officer

Now in our 76th year, we are building on our successes over the past decades. One example is our accreditation through Imagine Canada's new standards program, announced May 8, 2012. We are proud to be one of the first Canadian charities to receive this accreditation as it demonstrates our commitment to the highest standards of governance, ethics, management and transparency.

We are also proud of our new partnership with Governor General David Johnston as we respond to his call to Canada's community foundations to help shape smart and caring communities. Our new Smart and Caring Community Fund will exert the power of matching funds. The initial focus of this fund will be physical literacy – giving young children physical skills and confidence that will establish a foundation for lifelong health and well-being.

Our Smart and Caring Community Fund exemplifies three key characteristics we bring to our work as a community foundation:

- » it takes concrete action to respond to a demonstrated need – declining levels of childhood physical activity and increasing rates of obesity;
- » it builds on the successes of established partners – in this case the Pacific Institute for Sports Excellence and the Cridge Centre for the Family; and
- » it enacts a long-term vision for a vital community by teaching skills children need to be active and healthy for life.

Responsive, success-oriented, long-term – this “smart and caring” concept also describes our foundation's approach to managing and deploying our assets. We are proud to have realized a 10-year average of 5.9% on our investment returns and to have disbursed just over $10 million in grants in 2011 – bringing to $108 million the total number of grants distributed in our giving history.

We continue to explore ways to make our assets work smarter. For example, we are working with our community partners at Island Savings to develop a mission-based investing program that will leverage a special fund for loans to community agencies.

We are also exploring other collaborations that support success in the charitable sector. Our new website creates a platform both for sharing the stories of our grant recipients and for hosting the Victoria Community Knowledge Centre. This online hub will showcase the high-impact work of our grant recipients. By doing so, it will engage donors and other community members.

Finally, we salute the wide range of smart and caring people it takes to operate a successful community foundation. At the Board level, we acknowledge the contributions of Past Chair Chuck Burkett and Directors Kathryn Dawson and Dick Izard who left the Board at the end of 2011 – Chuck Burkett to become President of the Foundation's Honorary Governors. We welcome new Board members Karen DeMeo, Judy Pryce and Rasool Rayani and we thank Steve McKerrell, who served as Chair in 2010 and 2011 and who continues to serve as Past Chair.

At the community level, we thank all our donors and supporters – past and present. Working with you, the Victoria Foundation enacts our shared vision to make our community stronger by connecting people who care with causes that matter®. It is a vision as relevant today as it was when the foundation was created in 1936 – and as it will be in years to come. That is our history, our legacy, our future.

FUND BALANCES 2011

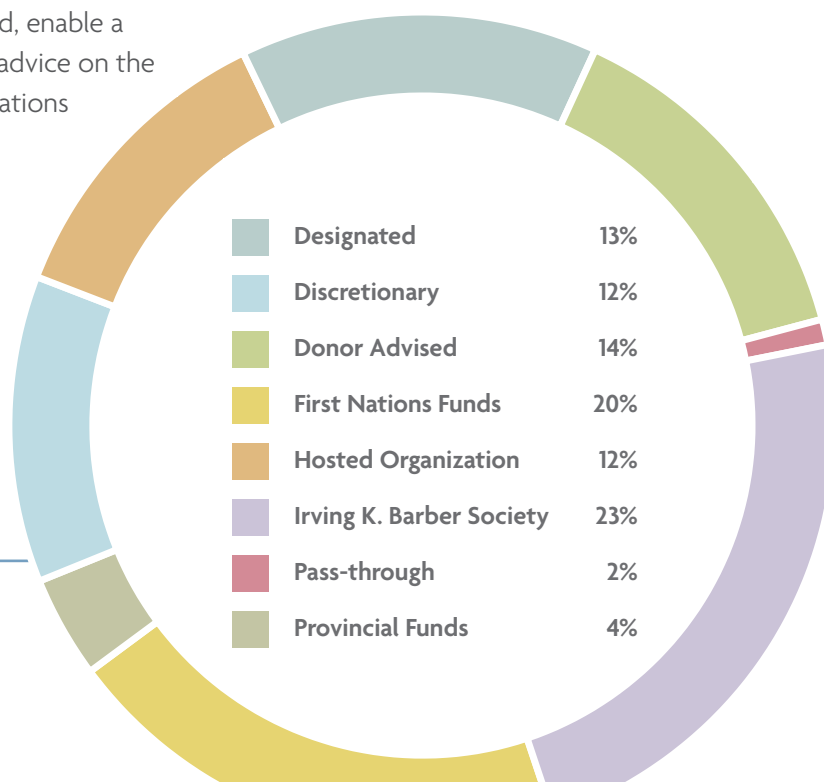

The Victoria Foundation has a vision to make our community stronger and our shared quality of life better now and for the long term. By connecting visionary donors with causes that truly matter we're able to make positive changes that support smart and caring communities.

The Victoria Foundation manages charitable gifts from donors whose generosity allows us to create permanent, income-earning funds that are distributed in the areas the donors wish to support. In doing so, we help charitable organizations succeed in building community resources in Victoria and, increasingly, throughout the province and Canada. A gift to the Victoria Foundation makes a difference to the communities it serves right now, and in perpetuity.

FUND TYPES WITHIN THE FOUNDATION'S ENDOWED ASSETS:

- » Designated funds are granted to specific, named charities.
- » Discretionary funds provide grants as determined by a volunteer committee process. There are 21 discretionary funds, the largest of which is the Vital Victoria Fund.
- » Donor Advised funds are normally established by individuals and families who wish to remain involved in granting decisions and may disburse grants annually.
- » First Nations funds are held on behalf of an Aboriginal government, generally as a result of a settlement.
- » Hosted Organization funds are managed on behalf of a registered charity with the returns periodically disbursed back to that organization.
- » Irving K. Barber BC Scholarship Society is a provincial fund managed by the Victoria Foundation. It provides awards for students to further their education internationally and here in B.C.
- » Pass-through funds, which are not endowed, enable a donor to make a contribution and provide advice on the granting of the capital to charitable organizations within the following 12-month period.
- » Provincial funds are those where the funds or the earnings from them are distributed throughout the Province of BC for a variety of charitable purposes.
